

work with multiple cohorts and visitors wear masks and follow the physical distancing guidelines. Fine Arts classrooms are set up to allow for safe, physical distancing for the teacher.

If someone becomes ill while at school:

Student: The student is to be sent to the office and we will contact guardians for immediate pick up. The student will wait in the office. When the guardian arrives, they are to call from their car and the child is to be brought out to them. Once the child has departed, the area will need to be disinfected. We are to let Linda know so that there is a deep clean that evening.

Staff: If a member falls ill, they let the office know and they go home and follow CDC guidelines.

If a student becomes ill while outdoors, they can wait for pick-up at the front of the school if supervision by a teacher, EA or Admin can be provided.

Gym equipment is cleaned after each use. We have paper towels, a spray bottle with disinfectant and a garbage can in one of our storage rooms along with signage on the doors indicating that equipment needs to be cleaned and put back after use. Teachers are using less equipment and sometimes bringing their own from their classrooms which they also disinfect after use or quarantine for a few days in their own classrooms.

Teachers have disinfectant bottles in their classrooms, so that they can disinfect manipulatives and other class materials after use.

Students wash hands before and after going to the gym, going to the library, going to Fine Arts classes, playing outside on the playground and using shared manipulatives in the classroom.
